

Homework

Our creative curriculum topic this half term is 'A Victorian Christmas'. Below are the homework tasks based on this topic. The children will also receive additional maths/literacy homework we feel needs consolidating or improving. Please choose 3 or more of the following activities to be completed at any time during, but no later than 15th Dec. Homework will be marked and house points received as it is returned to school. Some of the homework we received last term was of a very high standard so well done for that! A reminder, if children are using the internet, please don't allow them to simply copy and paste the work. It needs to be re written in their own words at their level of understanding to be of any use. Finally, please be sensible with homework; I do realise how busy parents can be and how little time there is. Please do not put unnecessary strains on your family and family time or create upset and anger due to homework! It's simply not worth it. Thanks, Mr. Roden.

Create a model to show the working conditions of children doing various jobs during the Industrial Revolution. (D.T.)

Up to 20hps

Research the life of a child worker during the Victorian era. (ICT)

Up to 5hps

Pick one item invented during the Victorian era that we use and take for granted nowadays. (History)

Draw and write about the invention and its inventor. Consider: when it was invented; what science was involved; how it changed the world; what inventions it has led on to.

Up to 10hps

Write a diary entry for a day in the life of a child worker during the Victorian times. (Literacy/history)

Up to 10hps

Write a discussion/debate text based around the following question: Should naughty children still get Christmas presents? (Literacy)

Up to 10hps

Sketch/draw/paint a scene from Victorian Britain showing the industrial factories and chimneys of Manchester. (Art)

Up to 5hps